MARK TWAIN: Good day to all you human millennials. The late Mark Twain here once again coming to you live with Suggestions Seven through Nine on how you might survive the 21st Century. Number 7 - “When the People Lead the Leaders will Follow.” Number 8 - “You’ all are actually the same color.” and Number 9 “Start your Personal Career in Animal Husbandry or Meat Substitute Cloning”

Suggestion Number Seven: “When the People Lead the Leaders will Follow.” At the present time Mega companies own your country and own the souls of every politician in office. This is connected to everything we have been talking about up to now... ..Bottom line, it is time for the old guard to retire with their bloated pensions and life-long no-cost politicians-only health insurance plans. Time for you all to elect new honest leaders who reduce all those retired politicians’ pensions and medical coverage in a fair and humane way as the first business of the day – and then keep the replacement politician’s pay in line with bottom ninety-nine salaries as well. “When the people lead, the leaders follow”. Lead em you ‘all. Find and elect some persons who still have their souls in-tact to run an ethical country. In addition, don’t forget you all need to get local newspapers and video websites going that kindly and honestly keep your city, state and federal officials in line. Real broadcasters that voice the truth focusing on the needs of the ninety-nine percent, and bringing a balance of power back to humankind. So e-mail or talk to your city and state governments monthly until you get local newspapers re-funded and reestablished. If government officials at any level are up to no good – email them – let them know YOU are watching them. Be the force that gets officials to make positive changes by calling them to the carpet with true facts and figures, and get them all to walk a straight line with your tax dollars. Share your anger and your conviction until you regain the bottom 99 percenters rightful place in society. Get to know your city planners and your city council too, do the same for your State and Federal elected representatives – this is all about your future. The key word here is “your” as in “owned by you.” Stop renting your life on earth from the toppies, millennial’s. Just stop it. Own your life by owning everything you say and do and walk an honest walk forward together. Stop being a puppet of the rich. “When the people lead – the leaders will follow.” Yes sir, you bet they will.

Okay, now on to Suggestion Number Eight: “You’ all are actually the same color.” It is only the density of the pigmentation in your skin that makes your outer shells look brighter or darker. Hey, scientist had this figured out well before I left the planet a hundred and ten years ago. Race is just a label. And all labels are general statements. And all general statements are false – including this one... ..You humans are all beautiful and you are all one divine miracle – so why not start acting a little more divine and a little less angry all the time? Stop feeding your media-induced prejudices and start being kind to each other – truly kind to each other. Tune out the toppies hysteria and peacefully chant your mantra “When the people lead the leaders will follow.” “When the people lead the leaders will follow.” Say it with me now... ..“When the people lead the leaders will follow.”

Now, notice I did not say “when the black leaders lead”, or when the “white leaders lead”. I also did not say “when the people protest”, or “when the people fight”, or “when the people rise” – those mantras are usually a preamble to something ugly – and I don’t like to do ugly – do you? Really? Ugly is as ugly does you ‘all... ..Gandhi simply said “When the people “LEAD” – the leaders will follow. You see, true leaders live by action and use their good actions to actually help others rise on their own accord. Tyrants lead by terror and use terror words because tyrants only feel big when they pound down hard on the souls of the innovators and the souls of their followers too. With Tyrants it always becomes “us” vs “them” and the only way for a tribe to move passed a Tyrant is to stop following that tyrant as a people... ..there are rich and poor American families still trying to figure this out 150 years after the end of the Civil War which makes me terrible sad here because it is terribly sad. You all are beautiful, and you are all the same color and from the same tribe human millennials.

Okay... Devine Suggestion Number Nine: “Start your personal Career in Animal Husbandry or Meat Substitute Cloning” instead of empowering mega-corporations to enslave mostly illegal workers in their Mega-Factory meat factories, squeezing out fake chemical and salt water injected meat byproducts manufactured on the shoulders of human despair, hubris and Animal Cruelty.”

Put simple, you bottom ninety nine percent humans need to end meat production at the mega-slaughterhouses of today. And you can do it without a single protest, or a single fight and it can start with a single chicken, or goat, or cow or even a single up-and-coming science geek. You all can easily and quickly bankrupt the six corporations who do all the animal slaughtering in America today ending their horrendous activities by offering real locally created meat and meat alternatives. All you bottom 99 percenters have to do here is bring back humane local animal husbandry – one little farmer at a time or work with your science friends to figure out how to effectively clone meat products. If you choose animal husbandry you can choose to be kind to your animals, keeping them happy and content on real family owned farms instead of letting mega-corporations hoard and abuse those animals. For the love of animals and the love of each other, move the processing of livestock back into hands and hearts of locals needs to happen right now, right where you are – yes right here at your house, right now you 'all. // How 'bout this idea? Instead of a soulless career designing smart phone aps for peanuts, why not rise-up on your own spirit and farm and husband animals with compassion and wisdom. Have you ever seen a real chicken become best friends with a cow? Have you ever seen two sister goats return from being on different grazing fields run straight to each other to catch up share the love of a sisterly reunion? Do you know that animals do have souls and that animals in nature and on real farms do live in families?

And if you are vegetarian, I got a better job idea for you! Get some of your bio-genius buddies to come up with productive ways to clone meat substitutes safely and effectively to keep up with the massive protein demands of all the earthy humans. Hey Vegans, how 'bout instead of protesting against the humans who chose to eat meat, why not learn to clone meat for them so that no human has to eat any animal's mother in order to consume protein? Not to mention the mountains of CO2 producing animal waste piles you will be eliminating. Mr. Rogers would be mighty proud of anyone who would perform such a great feat as cloning meat products! Here is a real chance to turn the toppie mega-factories on their ears and take control of human protein needs in ways that you all can all be proud of. In ways that respects both the human tribes and the animal families and tribes as well. //

Okay I've given you all a lot to think about and a lot to literally digest here.

These three chapters were short ones – but a good ones. We will talk again soon, in the meantime, you'all be safe and be the candle not the darkness, okay? Thank you for watching and listening. Until Next Time, I'm the Late Mark Twain telling you to stop complaining or protesting or criticizing others and get started doing something real for yourself, your families and your futures. In the meantime, you all take care now, you hear?
